Bridges, Skyscrapers, Offices

Description

When you go "dahntahn," you'll get why Pittsburgh is nicknamed the City of Bridges. (446 in total – count 'em!) The Central Business District is where the Allegheny River meets the Monongahela (ma-NON-ga-HALE-uh), and where you'll find soaring skyscrapers, hotels, sports arenas, theaters, restaurants, and nightlife.

Local tip

Take a bike ride down Three Rivers Heritage Trail over the bridge to see some of the best views of downtown Pittsburgh!

Culture, Locals, Markets

Description

Experience the city like a bona fide Yinzer on this historic strip along the Allegheny River.

It's always full of life, especially on weekends and game days. Between classic local restaurants, markets, and international grocery stores, you'll find plenty of fuel to cheer on the Steelers, Pirates, or Penguins – even if they're not your team!

Local tip

Have a chicken sandwich at Coop de Ville, a restaurant featuring duckpin bowling and a champagne vending machine, among other delights.

Students, Museums

Description

If you love a good college town vibe, set your sights on Oakland, home to the University of Pittsburgh's main campus. It's the academic and medical center of the city, and it hosts many of the top sights and museums along with plenty of green space. It's a convenient place to stay – just don't mention you went to Penn State, all right?

Local tip

From here it's easy to navigate to all areas of the city by bus. The Oaklander is a popular hotel in the area.

Walking, Shopping, Restaurants

Description

Once a magnet for hippie art and counterculture, this historic residential area is now the perfect place for an afternoon shopping spree or coffee date – especially on Walnut Street, which is packed with eclectic shops and galleries. Once you've walked up an appetite, check out the lively bars and restaurants Shadyside has to offer.

Local tip

Try a famous burnt almond torte at one of Pittsburgh's best bakeries, Prantl's. I also recommend Girasole or Noodlehead if you're the hungry type.

Description

Party Pittsburgh-style! East Carson Street's legendary concentration of drinkeries is perfect for a bar crawl, but you'd better start early, because it'll be packed. If nightlife isn't your thing, try hopping on a bike and hitting the riverfront trail for incredible views of the city.

Local tip

If it's too rainy for a bike ride, check out ASCEND South Side for climbing, fitness, and yoga classes. In the morning, drag yourself out of bed for a dose of hot coffee and local artwork at Big Dog.

Description

Named Squirrel Hill for its abundance of acorn-loving critters, this gorgeous, wealthy, multicultural neighborhood is a peaceful place to have a long walk and a good meal. Its traditionally Jewish delis and restaurants are not to be missed! Bring your walking shoes, though – it's hilly.

Local tip

Grab a hot cuppa at the Bohemian-style tearoom Dobrá Tea, then go for kosher baked goods at Pigeon Bagels. Food & Wine magazine named Pigeon Bagels one of the best in the US.

Description

Pittsburgh is a sports city above all, justly proud of its teams and arenas. Wave your Terrible Towel at Acrisure Stadium or wolf down pierogies at PNC Park. Get out on a kayak for a great view of both stadiums, and if you're lucky, you might even catch a baseball flying into the river. Not a sports fan? Some of the city's best museums are here.

Local tip

"Justly proud" isn't bragging! PNC Park is rated one of the best stadiums in Major League Baseball.

Photographer's tip

Start at the fountain right in the middle of the park, then look around for other cool spots. There's a beautifully manicured lawn and garden area, surrounded by ornate metal gates and cobblestone walkways. The water is off in winter, but the fountain is a great backdrop year-round.

Photographer's tip

The 360 views here will not disappoint: you'll have the North Shore on one side and Mt Washington on the other. Catch the sunrise or sunset – during the day it's all direct sunlight. The fountain is turned off in colder months, but during the holidays there's a giant Christmas tree.

Photographer's tip

This waterfall is nestled at the end of an easy hike. The trails get muddy after a good rain, but that's the best time to catch the surging falls. Go up the wooden steps to look over the top. You can walk right down to the base or stay dry on the wooden bridge and still get an amazing backdrop.

One of the newest photo hotspots with murals, colorful stairs, and a walkway with overhead lights like an old movie theater. The area is busy because of its many restaurants and shops, so park behind the terminal and go explore.
